Training

Since 2009, CénitS regularly holds its Supercomputing Conferences [1], which had count on the presence of experts of recognized national and international prestige, being directed to companies, technology centers, students, researchers and innovators, interested in the ICT sector, new technologies, entrepreneurship and innovation.

In addition, the Center also offers specialized courses [2], mainly directed towards university graduates in Computer Engineering and Telecommunications Engineering, 3rd and 4th year students of the same engineering and PhD students or master of similar degrees.
